Required Materials

1) Rosser Jr, J. Barkley, and Marina V. Rosser. Comparative economics in a transforming world economy. Mit Press, 2018.

2) Gregory, Paul R., and Robert C. Stuart. "The global economy and its economic systems." (2014).

Course Description

Comparative economic systems as a sub-discipline of economics used to focus primarily on the differences between the dominant paradigms of capitalism and socialism. Since most of the socialist economies disintegrated 30 years ago, the sub-discipline has shifted its focus towards the broad examination of institutions within different variations of the dominant global economic system, capitalism.

The purpose of this course is to examine and understand the logic and historical evolution of capitalism and socialism as economic systems. In the second part of this course, we will examine different national varieties of capitalist economies especially concentrating on USA, China, Russia and India. We are going to look at specific country examples, what challenges have they faced (or are facing currently) and how they have evolved or transitioned into a different economic system. Throughout the course we will also be learning about data cleaning and analysis of economic and political databases, especially focusing on the issue of rising inequality. There are two databases which we will be using

- 1) Comparative Political Dataset (<https://cpds-data.org/data/>)
- 2) Piketty-Saez Inequality database (<https://wid.world/>)

Course Outcomes & Objectives

By the end of this course, you will be able to:

- Define capitalism and socialism and identify the major variants of each economic system.
- Improve your critical thinking skills by understanding and evaluating the major arguments for and against each variant.
- Analyze cross-country data using simple graphs
- Sharpen your writing skills.
- Sharpen Data Interpretation skills

Teaching and Learning Methods

This class is completely based on recorded online videos and there is no in-person component. There will be office hours every Thursday 3-5 pm.

Attendance & Punctuality: There are no particular attendance requirements. Students are expected to watch the online videos and respond to online discussion posts.

Course Policies

You are expected to go through all the online videos to prepare for the quizzes, reaction papers and essays in the class. You are expected to also meet the necessary deadlines for the class. There will be opportunities for extra credit.

Assignments

Each assignment will be weighted, with a larger focus on Midterm and the Final exam.

- 1) Quizzes (20%) : There will be 5 quizzes in total, each worth 10 points. The quiz with the lowest score will be dropped.
- 2) Midterm (35%)- The midterm exam will be worth 40 points. The midterm exam will be two reaction paper from a list of papers that will be shared on Canvas. The reaction paper is to be at most 5 pages long, double spaced with 3 broad components: A short Summary, Reader's reaction to the paper and Suggestions for further improvements in the paper.
- 3) Final exam(35%)- The final exam will be worth 50 points and will be in the form of a term paper on a topic chosen by the student which relates to what is covered in the classroom. The term paper can also be a historical case study of a particular country, but the timeline and the topic of study must be well-defined.
- 4) Online discussion posts (10%)- There will be online discussions posted every two weeks which pose a question from the readings covered in previous weeks. Students are expected to actively participate in these online posts by posting their answers.

Grading Policy (Evaluation Methods & Criteria)

Final grades will be determined by weighted numerical average (not the raw averages reported on Canvas).

Anyone who makes Lauren's Promise vows to: 1.) listen to and believe those individuals who are being threatened or experiencing sexual assault, dating violence or stalking; 2.) represent a safe haven for sharing incidents of sexual assault, domestic violence, or stalking; and 3.) change campus culture that responds poorly to dating violence and stalking. By making Lauren's Promise, individuals are helping to change campus cultures that respond poorly to dating violence and stalking throughout the nation.
